

Chocolate

By Holly

I wanted to learn more about chocolate why it's addicting different kinds and one of the biggest bars.

Addicting because...

Chocolate is addicting because it sends something called endorphins that are like little messengers into your brain so it makes you want more chocolate! I found out that chocolate is one of the most selling products in the world. About half the kids in my class bring chocolate to school almost every day! That's a lot of kids!

Did you know

There are many different kinds of it to... like dark, milk, coconut, strawberry, jelly and blackberry. There is also white, cinnamon, cherry, extra creamy and candy cane!

10lb! / French

There is a local candy store in Port Jefferson called the Frigate. If you go to their chocolate area, there will be a 10lb piece of chocolate that's the size of two little dogs! In France there is a spa where they let you bathe in warm French chocolate.

Did you know?

Did you know that 40,000 different places in the world make chocolate? Well they do! Did you know the red M&M use to be poisonous? They had a certain chemical to make it red.

I hope my feature article told you more about why it's addicting some interesting flavors and some cool things about it.
