

How to Throw a Great Party

Without Wrecking the House

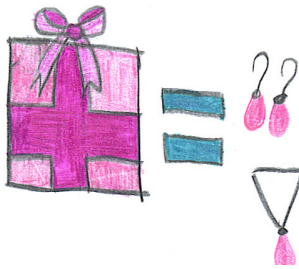

By Kelly

One way to throw a great party without wrecking the house is to have a plan that doesn't involve food fights, kicking, and hitting.

Great Things for Great Parties

The thing that you need to know is the reason. Some reasons for parties are birthdays, reunions, and just because.

The gifts you should get for a girl, for a birthday is jewelry, clothes, and webkinz. But, for a boy, for a birthday you should get him poke'mon cards, clothes, and maybe even webkinz. If you are having a reunion you should get a board game or maybe even a surprise trip. Also you should have a list of people you would like to invite.

Will you get Bullied?

Some people think they are safe with everyone but they are not always right. One way to know for all you parents that your child is safe with is to ask them how the day went. If they say bad and say a child's name and a thing that happened you know your child is not safe with that person. Ask the person if the people that they want to invite if they had any problems with. Kids get wild when they have too much sugar.

Fun goodies and excitement in fun games

Some fun games you could play at your party are balloon keep it up, silent charades, treasure hunt, statues, and red light green light. There are some fun games you and your friends can enjoy.

Now for snacks don't get snacks that you will find crumbs of. You may want to get healthy foods.

Some people say popcorn but Amanda says this, "You should try to avoid popcorn for some parties because if you have something really special it will get destroyed from the butter on the popcorn."

Another way to have fun is to do experiments. Some experiments are put a piece of foam in 5 different sodas than see which one dissolves first than keep track of it than you can see which one is the best.

As you can see these are some very fun ways to have a great party and to make that special someone happy and some other good news is your house will not be wrecked!!!
